IV. CORREOS ELECTRÓNICOS RECIBIDOS
Mr. Edgardo L. Muiz Rivera
Hacienda La Matilde
Paseo Morell Campos C-10
Ponce, Puerto Rico 00731

Dear Mr. Rivera:

On behalf of President Clinton, thank you for writing.

Unfortunately, because of the great number of requests the President receives every day, he is unable to respond as you asked. Your interest is sincerely appreciated, and the President sends his best wishes.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Daniel W. Burkhardt
Special Assistant to the President
Director of Correspondence and Presidential Messages
Thank you for writing to President Clinton via electronic mail. Since June 1993, the President has received over 2.3 million messages from people across the country and around the world. Online communication has become a tool to bring government and the people closer together.

Because so many of you write, the President cannot personally review each message, though he does receive samples of his incoming correspondence. The White House Correspondence staff helps him read and respond to the mail. All responses are mailed via the U.S. Postal Service. This is the only electronic message you will receive from whitehouse.gov. No other message purporting to be from the President or his staff with an address at whitehouse.gov is authentic. If you have received such a message, you have received a "spoof."

We appreciate your interest in the work of the Administration.

Sincerely,

Stephen K. Horn
Director, Presidential E-mail
The Office of Correspondence

P.S. Please read on - you may find the following information useful.

-- Regardless of the number of messages you may send, you will receive only one autoresponder message per day.

-- The only personal addresses at whitehouse.gov are the following:

  President@whitehouse.gov
  Vice.President@whitehouse.gov
  First.Lady@whitehouse.gov

Please write to Mrs. Gore and to White House staff by regular mail. The address is:

The White House, Washington, D.C., 20501 (Mrs. Gore), 20502 (all WH Staff)

-- On October 20, 1994, President Clinton and Vice President Gore opened a World Wide Web home page called "Welcome to the White House: An Interactive Citizens' Handbook," and it remains one of the more popular spots on the Web. The White House home page provides, among other things, a single point of access to virtually all government information available on the Internet. Children especially enjoy the "White House for Kids" feature -- look for your tour guide, Socks, the First Cat. "Welcome to the White House" can be accessed at:

  www.whitehouse.gov

-- White House documents and publications are available on the World Wide Web (see above) and by E-mail. To receive instructions on retrieving documents by E-mail, please send a message to the following address:

  publications@pub.pub.whitehouse.gov

1 of 2
Subject: Re: Inbound-White_House/www_mail => FIRST_LADY
Date: Fri, 20 Feb 1998 02:58:31 -0500 (EST)
From: autoresponder@WhiteHouse.gov
To: "EDGARDO L. MUÑIZ RIVERA" <muniz96@caribe.net>

Thank you for writing to the First Lady via electronic mail.

Because so many of you write, the First Lady cannot personally review each message. The mail is first read by White House Correspondence staff. Your concerns, ideas, and suggestions are carefully recorded and communicated to the First Lady weekly with a representative sampling of the mail.

All of us at the White House are excited about the progress made with this historic project, and we look forward to future developments. Your continued interest and participation are very important to us.

Sincerely,

Alice Pushkar
Director, First Lady's Correspondence
The Office of Correspondence

P.S. Please read on - you may find the following information useful.

-- The only personal addresses at whitehouse.gov are the following:
   First.Lady@whitehouse.gov,
   President@whitehouse.gov
and Vice.President@whitehouse.gov

-- On October 20, 1994, President Clinton and Vice President Gore increased the accessibility of government information by opening a World Wide Web home page called "Welcome to the White House: An Interactive Citizens' Handbook". This new WWW service provides a single point of access to all electronic government information on the Internet. "Welcome to the White House" can be accessed at:

   http://www.whitehouse.gov

-- On January 5, 1995, The House of Representatives also established a new World Wide Web site for electronic access to bills before Congress (and other legislative data). Access the House Web site at:

   http://www.house.gov

-- White House documents and publications are available by email. To receive instructions, please send a message to the following address (do not "reply" to the memo you are now reading):

   publications@whitehouse.gov

In the body of your message, type "Send Info" (without quotes); no other text should be included (including message headers or signature lines (.sig files)). The instructions will be sent to Subject: Re: Inbound-White_House_WWW_MAIL =&gt; VICE_PRESIDENT
Date: Fri, 20 Feb 1998 04:01:06 -0500 (EST)
From: autoreponder@WhiteHouse.gov
To: "EDGARDO L. MUÑIZ RIVERA" <muniz96@caribe.net>

Dear Friend:

Thank you for writing to Vice President Gore via electronic mail. Since coming on-line, vice.president@whitehouse.gov has received thousands of messages from people all over the world.

Although the volume of mail prevents the Vice President from personally reviewing each message, be assured that your concerns, ideas, and suggestions have been read carefully, and a detailed report of the mail is provided to the Vice President on a regular basis. Your message will be brought to his attention as part of that report. We currently are working toward a system that will allow us to respond more specifically to your messages.

In order to do so, your help will be needed to ensure that we can read and record your message clearly. Please try to write short and concise messages, address only one issue per message, and send only one copy of your message. You will receive one automated response per day.

On October 20, 1994, President Clinton and Vice President Gore acted to improve the accessibility of government information by opening a service called "Welcome to the White House: An Interactive Citizens' Handbook" on the Internet. This new World Wide Web service provides a single point of access to all electronic government information on the Internet. By using a free Web-browsing software program such as Mosaic or Cello, the user can access a multimedia interface to information from the White House and the Executive Branch of government, including White House documents, a virtual tour of the White House, and detailed information about Cabinet-level and independent agencies. This interface includes photographs, audio, and "hotlinks" to other government Web sites and services. You should check with your service provider for instructions on how to browse the Web. "Welcome to the White House" can be accessed at:

http://www.whitehouse.gov

Though the new Web server provides access to White House documents and publications, we will continue to provide these by e-mail. To receive instructions, please send a message to the following address (do not "reply" to the memo you are now reading):

publications@whitehouse.gov

In the body of your message, type "Send Info" (without quotes); no other text should be included, specifically message headers or signature lines (.sig files). The instructions will be sent to you automatically.

Also, we now have a FAQ (Frequently Asked Questions) document that, among other things, lists certain other sources of... government information. (The FAQ file is approximately 35K in size; you should check with your service provider to ensure that you can receive files of this size.) This FAQ address is an autoresponder only; any comment sent to this address will not be acknowledged. In order to obtain this, you should send an e-mail message to:

faq@whitehouse.gov

All of us at the White House are excited about the progress that has been made with this historic project, and we look forward to future developments. Your continued interest and participation are very important to us.

Sincerely,

Bill Mason
Director of Correspondence for the Vice President

[You will only receive one automated response per day]
Thank you for writing to the First Lady via electronic mail.

Because so many of you write, the FirstLady cannot personally review each message. The mail is first read by White House Correspondence staff. Your concerns, ideas, and suggestions are carefully recorded and communicated to the First Lady weekly with a representative sampling of the mail.

All of us at the White House are excited about the progress made with this historic project, and we look forward to future developments. Your continued interest and participation are very important to us.

Sincerely,

Alice Pushkar
Director, First Lady's Correspondence
The Office of Correspondence

P.S. Please read on - you may find the following information useful.

-- The only personal addresses at whitehouse.gov are the following:
  First.Lady@whitehouse.gov,
  President@whitehouse.gov
and Vice.President@whitehouse.gov

-- On October 20, 1994, President Clinton and Vice President Gore increased the accessibility of government information by opening a World Wide Web home page called "Welcome to the White House: An Interactive Citizens' Handbook". This new WWW service provides a single point of access to all electronic government information on the Internet. "Welcome to the White House" can be accessed at:

  http://www.whitehouse.gov

-- On January 5, 1995, The House of Representatives also established a new World Wide Web site for electronic access to bills before Congress (and other legislative data). Access the House Web site at:

  http://www.house.gov

-- White House documents and publications are available by email. To receive instructions, please send a message to the following address (do not "reply" to the memo you are now reading):

  publications@whitehouse.gov

In the body of your message, type "Send Info" (without quotes); no other text should be included (including message headers or signature lines (.sig files)). The instructions will be sent to you automatically.

******************************************************************************

-- This is the only electronic message you will receive from whitehouse.gov. No other message purporting to be from the First Lady or her staff at whitehouse.gov is verifiable. If you have received such a message, you have been spoofed. You will receive only one autoresponder message per day.

******************************************************************************
Subject: Re: INTERNET REGULATIONS
Date: Mon, 9 Feb 1998 09:03:00 -0500
From: Senator Murray@murray.senate.gov (Senator Murray)
To: "Edgardo L. Muñiz Rivera" <muniz96@caribe.net>

Dear Friend:

Thank you for contacting my office. As an elected official, it is important for me to be accessible, and I am thrilled to be part of the Internet. This is an auto-response to let you know that I have received your message.

I look forward to hearing from all Washington state constituents on issues which may concern them, and one of my top priorities is to try my hardest to provide timely and comprehensive responses to everyone who takes the time to contact me. It is for this reason that I am unable to give a specific electronic reply to your message. Due to limited staff and resources, it takes far too long to sort through each individual electronic message, route it to my individual legislative staff member who handles the issue, and then respond via the Internet in a timely manner. I want to assure you that your message has been read, and I have made note of your specific concerns.

Therefore, Washington state constituents who have included their full name and postal address in their electronic message will receive a reply through the U.S. Mail as soon as possible. If you did not include your name and address in your original electronic message, please resend your ENTIRE message with your name and address attached.

If you are interested in Washington, D.C. tour information, I have a separate internet address that you can write to:

tours&flags@murray.senate.gov

Flag order information is also provided through this address.

Also, I am pleased to announce that I have recently posted a homepage on the World Wide Web. I hope you get a chance to check it out! The address is:
http://www.senate.gov/~murray/

Thank you again for contacting my office. If you have any other questions or concerns, please feel free to let me know.

Sincerely,

Patty Murray
United States Senator (WA)
Edgardo,

> > > My name is Edgardo L. Muniz Rivera, student of Graduate Program (master) > > > of the Sacred Heart University of Puerto Rico. Actually I am carry a > > > investigation for obtain my master grade. The theme is "Internet > > > Regulations". I am acquaintance that you is a person to combat to > > > regulate the Internet.

Why do you keep sending me the same message. This is nothing urgent and I will reply back when I got time. Would you have written the same letter to me from Puerto Rico three four times ?

I do not know where you got the idea that I combat the regulation of Internet but I do not remember saying or arguing it. I am a defender of free speech and I draw the line with child pornography.

> > > My interest is genuine in this investigation and important for me, > > > because many children that very affected for the pornography and persons > > > infamous in the Internet.

All the information that you need is on my web pages and see especially:

Akdeniz, Yaman "Governance of Pornography and Child Pornography on the Global Internet: A Multi-Layered Approach," in Edwards, L and Waelde, C eds, Law and the Internet: Regulating Cyberspace, Oxford: Hart
http://www.leeds.ac.uk/law/pgs/yaman/governan.htm

> > > I appreciate your help about all information that you furnish and I need > > > the e-mail of the goverment of the UK, China, Singapur, that you have, > > > please send me.

I do not provide contact informations. There is not one e-mail address that you can contact for the UK government and I cannot provide my contacts details.

> > > And "What is your opinion about Internet Regulation? (is very important > > > for the investigation your answer, thanks)

To do properly your investigation you will have to have a look at my web pages and there is more than enough information related to the UK situation there.

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~
Yaman Akdeniz <lawya@leeds.ac.uk> Cyber-Rights & Cyber-Liberties (UK) at:
http://www.leeds.ac.uk/law/pgs/yaman/yaman.htm

Read CR&CL (UK) Report, 'Who Watches the Watchmen' http://www.leeds.ac.uk/law/pgs/yaman/watchmen.htm
Estimado señor Muñiz:
La Primera Dama recibió su solicitud. Seguramente estará contestando su correspondencia de mes de abril. De necesitar información adicional, no vacile en comunicarse con nosotros.

Edgardo L. Muñiz Rivera wrote:

La tecnología de las computadoras está formando parte de nuestro diario vivir y se ha convertido en una herramienta vital de trabajo y estudio.

La he escuchado en sinnúmero de veces abogando por los derechos de los niños, lo cuál es importante por nostros los padres.

Soy Edgardo L. Muñiz Rivera, estudiante de Maestría de la Universidad del Sagrado Corazón. Actualmente estoy llevando a cabo mi Tesis para obtener el grado en Sistemas de Información, a tales efectos el título del trabajo de investigación que estoy realizando es "Regulación de la Internet". La Internet es un área muy abarcadora y potente al igual que una gran herramienta en donde todo el mundo la está utilizando.
Subject: Respuesta
Date: Fri, 17 Apr 1998 09:16:48 -0400
From: Angie <a_garin@uscac1.usc.clu.edu>
To: muniz96@caribe.net

Leí tu mensaje de presentacion en tu pagina y entiendo que debes ponerlo en los dos idiomas, donde dices investigation te sugiero que utilices la palabra research. En cuanto a si la Internet se debe regular como especialista en el campo de la informacion considero que no. Esta red es un reflejo del mundo actual y como todo lo presente en este mundo somos nosotros los que tenemos que actuar con sabiduria en termino de que utilizar y no utilizar, que debemos permitir vean nuestros ninos en Internet, television, que pueden leer, que peliculas pueden ver en el cine asi como tambien que lugares deben visitar. Lo maravilloso de la Internet es precisamente esa apertura. Te deseo lo mejor en tu trabajo.

!Saludos Cordiales!